Online Lecture by

Rojda Tuğrul (Academy of Fine Arts, Vienna)

25 March 2021 | Thursday

18.00-19.30 CET

Rojda Tuğrul is an interdisciplinary artist and researcher, whose practice is concerned with the notion of identity in relation to space. In her lecture The Two Rivers of Mesopotamia she presents her artistic research project that analyses the effects of war on ecological and cultural heritage within the socio-political framework of Kurdish inhabited territories.

Focusing on ongoing dam projects in Southeast Turkey, she explores how power mechanisms unfold in different relationalities and temporalities of the habitat around the Tigris and Euphrates rivers in the context of war and displacement.
